The Navigate program has both a manager and a specialist that work closely with Lincoln County School District, the specialist particularly works with first-generation and low-income students. Ryslinge shared with the board there were three very successful high school visits this Fall. The College “Welcome Desk” was a successful event the beginning of the term, as was the BBQ and the Club & Info fair.

Ryslinge reminded the board of the five recommendations that the NWCCU offered to the College. Ryslinge shared upcoming events with the board. Ryslinge informed the board of the new representative model that College Council is taking on this year. The model was created by a work group and was adopted by College Council last spring. Oregon is seeing a decline in community college enrollment, OCCC has experienced a modest growth during the past three years. Ryslinge shared her experience visiting DC for the Rural Summit last month.

Most of the meeting had to do with how OCCA is working on its goals and how staff look at legislative items how they prioritize their interests. Cam Preuss is the new OCCA Executive Director. There was a video training on how board members can be advocates for their college, the video can be viewed from the OCCA website. Dave Price is OCCC’s advocacy coordinator.

c. Other Board Reports

E. INFORMATION AND DISCUSSION

a. Tuition Outlook

Ryslinge informed the board of a potential tuition discussion at a future board of education meeting. Overall for OR community colleges if there isn’t a significant funding increase from state colleges will have to weigh cutting services and offerings, or increasing tuition. Oregon President’s Council recent meeting shared that about 80% of the colleges will be looking at a significant short fall that would include program reductions and potentially lay offs to balance their budgets, which also has college leaders looking at tuition increases. Ryer asked how much paid into PERS is prorated into tiers – what is the distribution of employees in the tiers. Ryslingle suggested when Gintner returns from the ERP meeting, she can address the college's PERS contributions. Ryer asked if a pie graph could be provided showing the relative portion of employees who are in tier 1, tier 2.
