C. COLLEGE REPORTS

a. President's Report

Ryslinge began her President's report with a history of the Associated Student Government leaders. Current the college is attempting to step up the connection to ASG. Colleen Doherty, Academic Advisor is the advisor for the group. They are updating their by-laws and constitution to bring them up to date. Katherine Meredith and Wavery Sudborough have been appointed as the student voice for College Council.

President Ryslinge updated the board about the Rural Teachers Education Pipeline and alerted them that there will be curriculum approvals coming their way for the Early Childhood Education Certificate. These courses are ambitiously planned to begin in the Fall. LCSD has estimated thirty students who are interested in the program. Also, the board was updated on the new non-credit Hospitality courses being offered in Waldport and Yachats. Nelson-Robertson described the Lincoln City Culinary Center where classes are offered.

Ryslinge updated the board about the accreditation process. Ouderkirk asked about a handout for the board that lists the points the Title IV review will include. Ryslinge suggested the January meeting will address these points. Ryslinge described the process of the review and how a report is generated that will address any non-compliance items. The board's motion around assurances is about the board saying it is their intention that this institution meet all the points listed for the review. At the January meeting, Ryslinge will share the checklist that includes ADA access, testing accommodations, languages, etc. Ryslinge addressed Emery's inquiry about whether the size of the institution had any relevance.

Ryslinge discussed with the board the status of the RogueNET/SharkNet replacement progress and the upcoming ERP Vendor Demos taking place January 10-11 and January 17-18.

Lincoln County has been very involved in Mental Health First Aid Training and the college has offered the training for the second time with twenty-one faculty and staff attending.

Ryslinge provided Enrollment Trends for the 2017-18 Fall Term to the board.

c. CoFO Finance Report

Gintner told the board that the audit it mostly wrapped up, there was nothing significant. The board decided to ask the auditors to provide a verbal report next month. The completed 16-17 budget was explained and discussed. Ouderkirk asked about the Audubon Reserve Fund. The commitments for the nature center need to be researched. Nelson-Robertson said she could look up where the property is located. Ryslinge mentioned inquiries that have come her way about property the college owns in Waldport and will bring the specifics to the board for their evaluation.

D. BOARD REPORTS

a. Foundation Liaison: Nancy Osterlund

Osterlund shared information from the most recent OCCC Foundation board meeting.

The Foundation retained an attorney to review the MOU. The draft of the updated investment policy is being reviewed and will be brought to the OCCC Foundation board in February. Lance Beck retired from the board after three years. Beck made a motion to have the Foundation support 50% of the director's salary for the next two-year term, the motion passed. Beck was given a service recognition award. One of the SEAL awardees came to the Foundation Board Meeting and spoke of her experience at the college.
