Student Issue Updates

Student IDs for ESOL Students?

ALL students are eligible and may request a student ID. The person must be registered in the current or a future term. IDs for any student are available on-demand in Lincoln City and Newport. Each location prints regular and specialized healthcare program IDs.

New Business certificate for ESOL Students

The certificate was approved by College Council. During leadership transitions in multiple areas, the certificate did not complete state or accreditation approval. We hope to have HECC and NWCCU authorization to offer the certificate by end of fall term. All the courses the students completed meet business degree requirements. For the 3-5 students who completed all 3 courses in the proposed certificate, we cannot award a certificate prior to its approval from HECC and NWCCU. However, we will pay (grant funds) for them to take one course this academic year which will make them eligible to receive the certificate. This aligns with academic standards we follow as an accredited college.

Dr. Clemetsen is reaching out to the impacted students with these clarifications and updates.

Now in its 5th Edition, the game is seeing a rise in popularity. The 10-session introductory course will explore the rich history of DnD, the evolution of tabletop role-playing games, game mechanics, Lore 101 and, of course, the playing of a game or two. Class will be held from 4 to 5:45 pm Mondays and Wednesdays, July 8 through Aug. 7, at the Central County Campus in Newport. The cost is $75. Those who have played the game before, or have previously taken D&D 101 at the college, may be ready for Dungeons & Dragons 202: a more comprehensive dive where the first class is a character-sheet creation. From that point, the group will delve into an adventure about which the bards will sing tales for generations. D&D 202 will be held from 4 to 5:45 pm Tuesdays and Thursdays, July 9 to Aug. 8, at the Central County Campus in Newport. The cost is $75.

This Summer, Oregon Coast Community College's community education lineup runs across time (and tortured rhymes) with classes featuring Layers, Lairs and Players. The non-credit workshop lineup for the summer term is the leanest of the year, as attendance is traditionally far lighter than during the school year, but what this lineup lacks in sheer numbers, it more than makes up for in variety and content.

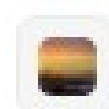

Layers
First, there's "The Geology of Roads End," a one-session workshop designed to help teach participants how to "read the rocks" at this beautiful Central Coast destination. Every attendee will receive a field trip guide so that they may visit Roads End on their own schedule and experience the geology firsthand. The class is led by Lincoln County native Margery Price, who will complete her Master's degree in Earth Sciences at the University of Oregon this Winter. The course is $20 and runs from 2 to 4:30 pm on Thursday, July 11, at the North County Center in Lincoln City.

Lairs
Next up are two sessions led by Jake Holshue, an introduction and a deeper dive into one of the most iconic of all table-top role-playing games - Dungeons & Dragons. Originally created in the 1970s, it is a game that generations of enthusiasts have enjoyed.

Players
The final offering in the summer Community Education Lineup is Improv Comedy. In this program, taught by members of the Porthole Players Theatre Company, participants will learn to improve their stage wit and wisdom. The class will include elements of movement, accent work, sketch writing, content editing, prop mastery, scene work and general fearlessness on stage or wherever fun times are to be had. The class will use theater games, work groups and real-time evaluation to help attendees refine their skills as comedy writers and actors. All ages are welcome. Led by Sean Orton, the eight-session class will be held from 4 to 5 pm on Thursdays, July 11 to Aug. 22 at the OCCC Central County Campus in Newport. The cost is $15.
